1. INTRODUCTION

The Learning Outcomes-based Curriculum Framework (LOCF) for B.A HONS. (B.A.MC) In Mass Communication degree programme intended to design a broad learning framework to provide the human capital needs of the ever changing Media and Entertainment Industry (M & E Industry). It also aims to inculcate and empower learners to innovation, incubation and acquire entrepreneurship abilities along with professional and employable skills. It is also designed to imbibe primary research culture among learners to encourage Research and Development (R & D) potentials. It has also been structured to prepare the undergraduates to achieve skills for digital and cyber world of the present and future era.

The programme incorporates current and futuristic trends in the Media and Entertainment Industry with Graduate Attributes (GAs) such as disciplinary knowledge and skills, influential and effective communication, self-directed learning, critical thinking, problem solving abilities, digital empowerment, ability to apply knowledge, lifelong learning, analytical reasoning, research-related skills, cooperation/team work, scientific reasoning, reflective thinking, multicultural competencies, leadership readiness/qualities, ethical reasoning, global vision, professional commitment and sensitizing with Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) of United Nations. It also aims to build future ready professionals and socially responsible global citizens working under multi-cultural environment contributing to the attainment of global peace.

2. LEARNING OUTCOMES-BASED APPROACH TO CURRICULUM PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT: (LOACPD)

2.1 Nature and extent of B.A. HONS. (Mass communication)

The fundamental premise underlying the learning outcomes-based approach to curriculum planning and development is that higher education qualification such as B.A HONS. In Mass Communication are awarded on the basis of demonstrated achievement of outcomes (in terms of knowledge, understanding skills, attitudes and values) and academic qualities expected from a graduate of professional programme such as B.A. HONS. In Mass communication. The learning outcomes specify what exactly graduates after successfully completing Mass communication degree programme of study are expected to know, understand and able to practice on the professional level.

The expected learning outcomes are very important in present day context, as it is generally observed that graduates of professional programmes such as Mass communication are mostly not employable in view of M & E Industry. Therefore, higher education degrees must formulate Graduate Attributes (GAs), qualification descriptors, learning outcomes and course learning outcomes which will help in curriculum planning and development in the form of design and delivery. The overall formulation of the professional degree programme must equip learner to have competencies to provide deliverables to the human capital hungry industry.

2.2 Aims of Bachelor’s Degree Programme in Mass communication

Programme Educational Objectives (PEOs):

The overall objectives of the Learning Outcomes-based Curriculum Framework (LOCF) for Mass communication & Journalism degree are:

1. To empower learners by communication, professional and life skills.
2. To impart the basic knowledge of Mass communication and related areas of studies.
3. To prepare socially responsible media academicians, researchers, professionals with global vision.
4. To develop the learner into competent and efficient Media & Entertainment Industry-ready professionals.

3. GRADUATE ATTRIBUTES (GAs)

The Graduate Attribute (GAs) reflect particular qualities and abilities of an individual learner including knowledge, application of knowledge, professional and life skills, attitudes and human values that are required to be acquired by Mass communication graduates at the Higher Education Institutions (HEIs). The graduate attributes include capabilities to strengthen one’s professional abilities for widening current knowledge and industry-ready skills, undertaking future studies for global and local application, performing creatively and professionally, in a chosen career and ultimately playing a constructive role as a socially responsible global citizen. The Graduate Attributes define the characteristics of learners and describe a set of competencies that are beyond study of a particular area and programme. Any graduate of Mass communication should be media literate with the understanding of the core concepts of communication, the knowledge of new communication technologies and responsibility towards the society.

Graduate Attributes include:-

- 1. Disciplinary Knowledge: Knowledge of communication concept and theories. Acquiring knowledge of different dimensions of communication, historical perspectives and other related areas of studies.
- 2. Understanding the Role of Press: The press in democratic society, importance of freedom of press and impact of media in general.
- 3. Skilled and Industry-ready Professionals: Strengthening the abilities of a learner by skills, gaining knowledge of the present scenario of M & E industry including advertising, public relations, corporate communication, digital communication, media management.

4. Influential and effective communication: Influential and effective communication ability to share thoughts, ideas and applied skills of communication in its various perspectives like written communication, speech communication etc.

5. Research-related Skills: A sense of inquiry and investigation for raising relevant and contemporary questions, synthesizing and articulating.

6. Cooperation/ Team work/leadership quality: Building a team, motivating and inspiring the team members to work up with cooperation to their utmost efficiency. Build up leadership quality.

7. Digital Literacy: Ability to use digital sources, and read them critically and to use digital resources for presentations.

4. QUALIFICATION DESCRIPTORS (QDS)

A qualification descriptor of Mass communication undergraduate programme indicates the generic outcomes and graduate attributes expected for the award of the Bachelor of Arts, B.A. (Hons.) in Mass communication degree programme. Qualification descriptors also describe the academic standard for a specific qualification in terms of the levels of knowledge and understanding, skills and competencies and attitudes and values that the holders of the qualification are expected to attain and demonstrate, in terms of actual outputs after acquiring B.A. (Hons.) degree in Mass Communication. These descriptors also indicate the common academic standards for the qualification and help the degree-awarding bodies in designing, approving, assessing and reviewing academic programmes. The learning experiences and assessment procedures are designed to provide every student with the opportunity to achieve the Intended Learning Outcomes (ILO). The qualification descriptors reflect both disciplinary knowledge, professional skills and understanding of Mass communication & Journalism discipline including generic skills and global competencies that all students in different academic fields of study should acquire/attain and demonstrate. The students who will complete three years of full-time study of an undergraduate programme of study in Mass communication will be awarded a Bachelor's Degree. Some of the expected learning outcomes that a student should be able to demonstrate on completion of a degree level programme includes the following:

Qualification descriptors for a Bachelor's Degree with honors in Mass communication includes the following:

- Demonstrate (i) a systematic, extensive and coherent knowledge and understanding of an academic field of study as a whole and its applications, and links to related disciplinary areas/subjects of study; including a critical understanding of the established theories, principles and concepts, and of a number of advanced and emerging issues in the field of Journalism & Mass Communication; (ii) Procedural knowledge that creates different types of professionals related to the Media & Entertainment Industry, including research and development, teaching and government and public service; (iii) Professional and communication skills in the field of mass media, advertising, public relations, corporate communication, photography, animation, political communication, media management and new media and other such emerging areas of knowledge and Media Branches and current developments in the academic field of Media studies, including a critical understanding of the latest developments, and an ability to use established techniques of analysis and enquiry within the area of Journalism & Mass Communication.

- Use knowledge, understanding and skills for critical assessment of a wide range of ideas and complex problems and issues relating to the chosen field of study.
- Communicate the results of studies undertaken in an academic field accurately in a range of different contexts using the main concepts, constructs and techniques of the Mass communication & Journalism studies.
- Address one's own learning needs relating to current and emerging areas of study, making use of research, development and professional materials as appropriate, including those related to new frontiers of knowledge.
- Apply one's disciplinary knowledge and transferable skills to new/unfamiliar contexts and to identify and analyse problems and issues and seek solutions to real-life problems.

Demonstrate subject-related and transferable skills that are relevant to some of the job trades and employment opportunities

5. PROGRAMME LEARNING OUTCOMES (PLOs)

The key outcomes planned in this undergraduate programme in Mass communication & Journalism is underpinned as follows:

After completing this undergraduate programme, a learner:

1. Shall acquire fundamental knowledge of Mass communication & Journalism and related study area.
2. Shall acquire the knowledge related to media and its impact.
3. Shall be competent enough to undertake professional job as per demands and requirements of M & E Industry.
4. Shall empower themselves by communication, professional and life skills.
5. Shall be able to enhance the ability of leadership.
6. Shall become socially responsible citizen with global vision
7. Shall be equipped with ICTs competencies including digital literacy.
8. Shall become ethically committed media professionals and entrepreneurs adhering to the human values, the Indian culture and the Global culture.

9. Shall have an understanding of acquiring knowledge throughout life.

6. COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

Course means the different papers a student undertakes in a programme of study. Course outcomes describe details of the student's abilities after completion of the course. Programme learning outcomes are attained through the learning of different Courses in a given programme or one can say that the achievement by student of course learning outcomes lead to his acquisition of programme learning outcomes. The course learning outcomes are linked to the different Graduate Attributes but not all course learning outcomes are linked to all Graduate Attributes as Graduate Attributes are developed through the entirety of the overall course learning outcomes after the completion of the programme of study. Given herewith are the tables indicating the connection between course learning outcomes and programme learning outcomes :

7. Teaching Learning Process:

Learning is a challenge which has to be accepted. It is the most important activity one needs to accomplish throughout his life and career. One has to encourage the student to learn. A student needs to be engaged in a rigorous process of learning and self-discovery by adopting a highly focused and yet flexible approach to education as opposed to rote learning. Each day the student should be encouraged to focus on key areas of the course and learn its fundamentals and its application in life and society. Teaching and learning pedagogy now envisages a shift from domain or conclusions-based approach to the experiential or process-based approach.

The present programme will promote learning on a proportionate scale of 40:20:40 principle, where lectures (listening/hearing) will constitute 40 percent of the delivery; visuals (seeing) 20 percent of the learning methods; and experience (doing/participating) 40 percent. This ratio is subject to change as per the needs of the programme from time to time. In order to achieve its objective of focused process based learning for the holistic development of students, the University uses a variety of knowledge delivery methods:

a. Lectures

Lectures should be designed to provide the learners with interesting and fresh perspectives on the subject matter. Lectures should be interactive in a way that students work with their teachers to get new insights in the subject area, on which they can build their own bridges to higher learning.

b. Discussions

Discussions are critical components of learning, and can be used as a platform for students to be creative and critical with old and new ideas. Besides developing critiquing skills, arriving at consensus on various real-life issues and discussion groups lead to innovative problem solving and, ultimately to success.

c. Simulations

provide students opportunities to understand real life situations and scenarios, and solve challenges in a controlled environment or make use of them in simulating cultural experiences by locating/transposing them in new (local, regional, national and international) situations.

d. Case Studies:

Real case studies, wherever possible, should be encouraged in order to challenge students to find creative solutions to complex problems of individual, community, society and various aspects of knowledge domain concerned.

e. Role Playing:

Assuming various roles, as in real life, is the key to understanding and learning. Students are challenged to make strategic decisions through role-plays, and to analyze the impact of these decisions. For this purpose, incidents from literary texts may also be used.

f. Team Work

Positive collaboration in the form of team work is critical in the classroom environment, for which it is necessary to transcend one's prejudices and predilections so as to achieve the desired outcomes. In the process of team work, learners will acquire the skills of managing knowledge acquisition and other collaborative learners, thereby understanding how to incorporate and balance personalities.

g. Study Tours/Field Visits:

Study Tours/ Field trips provide opportunities to the learners to test their in-class learning in real life situations as well as to understand the functional diversity in the learning spaces. These may include visits to sites of knowledge creation, preservation, dissemination and application. Institutions may devise their own methods to substitute/modify this aspect.

8. Assessment Methods:

a. Alignment of Programme Learning Outcomes and Course Learning Outcomes:

The assessment of learners' achievement in B.A HONS. In Mass Communication will be aligned with the following:

- a. Programme learning outcomes (graduate descriptors)
- b. Course learning outcomes (qualification descriptors)
- c. Academic and professional skills suggested in the graduate learning descriptors in the LOCF recommendations (indicated and illustrated in the Learning Outcomes in respect of select courses).

b. Assessment priorities: Institutions will be required to prioritize formative assessments (in-semester activities including tests done at the department or instructor level) rather than giving heavy and final weight age to summative assessments (end-semester and/or midsemester tests traditionally done centrally). Progress of learners towards achieving learning outcomes may be assessed making creative use of the following, either independently or in combination: time-constrained examinations (say 1-hour or 2-hour tests); closed-book and open-book tests (if applicable, rather than doing as a rule); problem based assignments; real life simulations; observation of practical skills (speaking, listening, problem solving within a peer group or a class); individual project reports (case-study or term papers within a given word limit); team project reports; oral presentations, including seminar presentation; viva-voce, interviews; computerized adaptive testing for MCQ; peer and self- assessment etc. and any other pedagogic approaches as may be relevant keeping in view the learners' level, credit load and class size.

c. Diversity in Assessment Methods: Allowing for the diversity in learning and pedagogical methods adopted by different universities and institutions, stakeholders (Academic Councils, Boards of Studies or statutory bodies) are expected to ensure that the objectives of the course(s) are clearly aligned to learning outcomes. It is expected that the curricula developed by institutions will maintain a transparent roadmap of (a) pedagogical methods and priorities and (b) learning outcomes that reflect the weightage points given to different aspects of skills and achievements identified in the recommendations.

d. Learning Outcomes Index: While devising assessment modes and criteria, institutions may look to gridlock course learning outcomes and programme learning outcomes as indicated in the LOCF mass communication & journalism, and work out ways to assign credit loads and distribute weightage points for each. The following table shows one possible way to develop a Learning Outcomes index for the Programme and the courses.

e. Innovation and Flexibility: Within each category, institutions are expected to encourage instructors to bring in innovative and flexible methods to guarantee the fullest realization of Learning Outcomes outlined in the document. All such instructional and assessment requirements must be clearly communicated to all stakeholders at the time of course registration. Any subsequent change or minor modification necessary for fuller realization of learning outcomes must be arranged with due notice and institutional arrangement at the relevant level.

f. Freedom and Accountability: Freedom and accountability of the stakeholder are key attributes that determine the success of the Learning Outcomes framework. For example, in research work, learners may be asked to pay attention to library work and survey of literature, originality of ideas, formulation of arguments, and creativity. Components may be assigned weightage points accordingly (say, x:y:z for different components out of 15 points). The excellence of institutions will be increasingly determined by Learning Outcomes rather than programme or course objectives. Hence it is necessary to innovate continually in learning and assessment in order to ensure meaningful and socially relevant learning (with transparent Learning Outcomes indices) rather than rote learning.

g. Clustering of Activities: Each cluster of activity may be assigned weightage points in accordance with the priorities of the institution without diluting the principles given in the LOCF. So an institution may choose to have any or all of the following in its in-semester activities with clear and transparent methods of communication to learners: open viva voce, group quiz or individual, classroom simulations and problem solving activities, library or field visits, term papers, individual and group reports, poster presentations. Credit hour and L-T-O distribution shall be crucial to any such clustering.

h. Review and Amendment: It is important for institutions to review, periodically and without fail, the efficacy of any method adopted to meet the learning outcomes proposed in the LOCF recommendations. Institutions are also required to make statutory provisions to adapt/modify/amend rules and clauses as may be necessary without violating the spirit of the larger programme outcomes outlined by the UGC in the CBCS guidelines.

i. Spirit Rather than Letter of the LOCF: The guidelines for assessment given here and elsewhere in the LOCF recommendations are indicative rather than exhaustive. So institutions are expected to frame assessment modes and criteria relevant to their situation and context, in keeping with the spirit of the LOCF. The basic idea of LOCF (B.A. HONRS IN MASS COMMUNICATION)—that learners at this level should understand their position(s) in the light of regional, national and global perspectives—must find a true and transparent reflection in the assessment.

9. Structure of the Programme:

B.A. (HONS) IN MASS COMMUNICATION

There shall be five Courses in each semester, four theories and one practical. Each Course is divided in two components. Component A and Component B. Passing in each component shall be compulsory. Each theory Course will be divided in to Five Units. The students will be required to solve one question from each of five units. Details and marks are as following:

1. INTRODUCTION

The Learning Outcomes-based Curriculum Framework (LOCF) for MASTER OF ARTS (M.A.M.C.) in mass communication, postgraduate degree programme intended to design a broad learning framework to provide the human capital needs of the ever changing Media and Entertainment Industry (M & E Industry). It also aims to inculcate and empower learners to innovation, incubation and acquire entrepreneurship abilities along with professional and employable skills. It is also designed to imbibe primary research culture among learners to encourage Research and Development (R & D) potentials. It has also been structured to prepare the undergraduates to achieve skills for digital and cyber world of the present and future era.

The programme incorporates current and futuristic trends in the Media and Entertainment Industry with Graduate Attributes (GAs) such as disciplinary knowledge and skills, influential and effective communication, self-directed learning, critical thinking, problem solving abilities, digital empowerment, ability to apply knowledge, lifelong learning, analytical reasoning, research-related skills, cooperation/team work, scientific reasoning, reflective thinking, multicultural competencies, leadership readiness/qualities, ethical reasoning, global vision, professional commitment and sensitizing with Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) of United Nations. It also aims to build future ready professionals and socially responsible global citizens working under multi-cultural environment contributing to the attainment of global peace.

2. LEARNING OUTCOMES-BASED APPROACH TO CURRICULUM PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT: (LOACPD)

2.1 NATURE AND EXTENT OF MASTER OF ARTS IN MASS COMMUNICATION (M.A.M.C)

The fundamental premise underlying the learning outcomes-based approach to curriculum planning and development is that higher education qualification such as MASTER OF ARTS (M.A.M.C.) JOURNALISM are awarded on the basis of demonstrated achievement of outcomes (in terms of knowledge, understanding skills, attitudes and values) and academic qualities expected from a postgraduate of professional programme such as MASTER OF ARTS (M.A.M.C.) JOURNALISM. The learning outcomes specify what exactly postgraduates after successfully completing Mass communication & Journalism degree programme of study are expected to know, understand and able to practice on the professional level.

The expected learning outcomes are very important in present day context, as it is generally observed that postgraduates of professional programmes such as Mass communication & Journalism are mostly not employable in view of M & E Industry. Therefore, higher education degrees must formulate Graduate Attributes (GAs), qualification descriptors, learning outcomes and course learning outcomes which will help in curriculum planning and development in the form of design and delivery. The overall formulation of the professional degree programme must equip learner to have competencies to provide deliverables to the human capital hungry industry.

2.2 Aims of Post Graduate Degree Programme in Mass communication & Journalism

Programme Educational Objectives (PEOs):

The overall objectives of the Learning Outcomes-based Curriculum Framework (LOCF) for Mass communication & Journalism degree are:

5. To empower learners by communication, professional and life skills.
6. To impart the basic and advance knowledge of Mass communication & Journalism and related areas of studies.
7. To prepare socially responsible media academicians, researchers, professionals with global vision.

6. Cooperation/ Team work: Building a team, motivating and inspiring the team members to work up with cooperation to their utmost efficiency.

4. QUALIFICATION DESCRIPTORS (QDS)

A qualification descriptor of Mass communication & Journalism postgraduate programme indicates the generic outcomes and graduate attributes expected for the award of the MASTER OF ARTS (M.A.M.C.) J in Mass communication & Journalism degree programme. Qualification descriptors also describe the academic standard for a specific qualification in terms of the levels of knowledge and understanding, skills and competencies and attitudes and values that the holders of the qualification are expected to attain and demonstrate, in terms of actual outputs after acquiring M.A.M.C degree in Journalism & Mass Communication. These descriptors also indicate the common academic standards for the qualification and help the degree- awarding bodies in designing, approving, assessing and reviewing academic programmes. The learning experiences and assessment procedures are designed to provide every student with the opportunity to achieve the Intended Learning Outcomes (ILO). The qualification descriptors reflect both disciplinary knowledge, professional skills and understanding of Mass communication & Journalism discipline including generic skills and global competencies that all students in different academic fields of study should acquire/attain and demonstrate. The students who will complete two years of full-time study of a postgraduate programme in Mass communication & Journalism will be awarded a Master's Degree. Some of the expected learning outcomes that a student should be able to demonstrate on completion of a degree level programme includes the following:

Qualification descriptors for a Master's Degree in Mass communication &

Journalism include the following:

- Demonstrate (i) a systematic, extensive and coherent knowledge and understanding of an academic field of study as a whole and its applications, and links to related disciplinary areas/subjects of study; including a critical understanding of the established theories, principles and concepts, and of a number of advanced and emerging issues in the field of Journalism & Mass Communication; (ii) Procedural knowledge that creates different types of professionals related to the Media & Entertainment Industry, including research and development, teaching

9. Shall have an understanding of acquiring knowledge throughout life.

6. COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Course means the different papers a student undertakes in a programme of study. Course outcomes describe details of the student's abilities after completion of the course. Programme learning outcomes are attained through the learning of different Courses in a given programme or one can say that the achievement by student of course learning outcomes lead to his acquisition of programme learning outcomes. The course learning outcomes are linked to the different Graduate Attributes but not all course learning outcomes are linked to all Graduate Attributes as Graduate Attributes are developed through the entirety of the overall course learning outcomes after the completion of the programme of study. Given herewith are the tables indicating the connection between course learning outcomes and programme learning outcomes:

7. Teaching Learning Process:

Learning is a challenge which has to be accepted. It is the most important activity one needs to accomplish throughout his life and career. One has to encourage the student to learn. A student needs to be engaged in a rigorous process of learning and self-discovery by adopting a highly focused and yet flexible approach to education as opposed to rote learning. Each day the student should be encouraged to focus on key areas of the course and learn its fundamentals and its application in life and society.

Teaching and learning pedagogy now envisages a shift from domain or conclusions-based approach to the experiential or process-based approach.

The present programme will promote learning on a proportionate scale of 40:20:40 principle, where lectures (listening/hearing) will constitute 40 percent of the delivery; visuals (seeing) 20 percent of the learning methods; and experience (doing/participating) 40 percent. This ratio is subject to change as per the needs of the programme from time to time. In order to achieve its objective of focused process based learning for the holistic development of students, the University uses a variety of knowledge delivery methods:

a. Lectures

Lectures should be designed to provide the learners with interesting and fresh perspectives on the subject matter. Lectures should be interactive in a way that students work with their teachers to get new insights in the subject area, on which they can build their own bridges to higher learning.

b. Discussions

Discussions are critical components of learning, and can be used as a platform for students to be creative and critical with old and new ideas. Besides developing critiquing skills, arriving at consensus on various real-life issues and discussion groups lead to innovative problem solving and, ultimately to success.

c. Simulations

Simulations provide students opportunities to understand real life situations and scenarios, and solve challenges in a controlled environment or make use of them in simulating cultural experiences by locating/transposing them in new (local, regional, national and international) situations.

d. Case Studies:

Real case studies, wherever possible, should be encouraged in order to challenge students to find creative solutions to complex problems of individual, community, society and various aspects of knowledge domain concerned.

e. Role Playing:

Assuming various roles, as in real life, is the key to understanding and learning. Students are challenged to make strategic decisions through role-plays, and to analyze the impact of these decisions. For this purpose, incidents from literary texts may also be used.

f. Team Work

Positive collaboration in the form of team work is critical in the classroom environment, for which it is necessary to transcend one's prejudices and predilections so as to achieve the desired outcomes. In the process of team work, learners will acquire the skills of managing knowledge acquisition and other collaborative learners, thereby understanding how to incorporate and balance personalities.

g. Study Tours/Field Visits:

Study Tours/ Field trips provide opportunities to the learners to test their in-class learning in real life situations as well as to understand the functional diversity in the learning spaces. These may include visits to sites of knowledge creation, preservation, dissemination and application. Institutions may devise their own methods to substitute/modify this aspect.

1. Assessment Methods:

a. Alignment of Programme Learning Outcomes and Course Learning Outcomes:

The assessment of learners' achievement in MASTER OF ARTS (M.A.M.C.) in mass communication will be aligned with the following:

- a. Programme learning outcomes (Postgraduate descriptors)
- b. Course learning outcomes (qualification descriptors)
- c. Academic and professional skills suggested in the postgraduate learning descriptors in the LOCF recommendations (indicated and illustrated in the Learning Outcomes in respect of select courses).

b. Assessment priorities: Institutions will be required to prioritize formative assessments (in-semester activities including tests done at the department or instructor level) rather than giving heavy and final weight age to summative assessments (end-semester and/or mid semester tests traditionally done centrally). Progress of learners towards achieving learning outcomes may be assessed making creative use of the following, either independently or in combination: time-constrained examinations (say 1-hour or 2-hour tests); closed-book and open-book tests (if applicable, rather than doing as a rule); problem based assignments; real life simulations; observation of practical skills (speaking, listening, problem solving within a peer group or a class); individual project reports (case-study or term papers within a given word limit); team project reports; oral presentations, including seminar presentation; viva-voce, interviews; computerized adaptive testing for MCQ; peer and self- assessment etc. and any other pedagogic approaches as may be relevant keeping in view the learners' level, credit load and class size.

c. Diversity in Assessment Methods: Allowing for the diversity in learning and pedagogical methods adopted by different universities and institutions, stakeholders (Academic Councils, Boards of Studies or statutory bodies) are expected to ensure that the objectives of the course(s) are clearly aligned to learning outcomes. It is expected that the curricula developed by institutions will maintain a transparent roadmap of (a) pedagogical methods and priorities and (b) learning outcomes that reflect the weightage points given to different aspects of skills and achievements identified in the recommendations.

d. Learning Outcomes Index: While devising assessment modes and criteria, institutions may look to gridlock course learning outcomes and programme learning outcomes as indicated in the LOCF mass communication & journalism, and work out ways to assign credit loads and distribute weightage points for each. The following table shows one possible way to develop a Learning Outcomes index for the Programme and the courses.

e. Innovation and Flexibility: Within each category, institutions are expected to encourage instructors to bring in innovative and flexible methods to guarantee the fullest realization of Learning Outcomes outlined in the document. All such instructional and assessment requirements must be clearly communicated to all stakeholders at the time of course registration. Any subsequent change or minor modification necessary for fuller realization of learning outcomes must be arranged with due notice and institutional arrangement at the relevant level.

f. Freedom and Accountability: Freedom and accountability of the stakeholder are key attributes that determine the success of the Learning Outcomes framework. For example, in research work, learners may be asked to pay attention to library work and survey of literature, originality of ideas, formulation of arguments, and creativity. Components may be assigned weightage points accordingly (say, x:y:z for different components out of 15 points). The excellence of institutions will be increasingly determined by Learning Outcomes rather than programme or course objectives. Hence it is necessary to innovate continually in learning and assessment in order to ensure meaningful and socially relevant learning (with transparent Learning Outcomes indices) rather than rote learning.

g. Clustering of Activities: Each cluster of activity may be assigned weightage points in accordance with the priorities of the institution without diluting the principles given in the LOCF. So an institution may choose to have any or all of the following in its in-semester activities with clear and transparent methods of communication to learners: open viva voce, group quiz or individual, classroom simulations and problem solving activities, library or field visits, term papers, individual and group reports, poster presentations. Credit hour and L-T-O distribution shall be crucial to any such clustering.

h. Review and Amendment: It is important for institutions to review, periodically and without fail, the efficacy of any method adopted to meet the learning outcomes proposed in the LOCF recommendations. Institutions are also required to make statutory provisions to adapt/modify/amend rules and clauses as may be necessary without violating the spirit of the larger programme outcomes outlined by the UGC in the CBCS guidelines.

i. Spirit Rather than Letter of the LOCF: The guidelines for assessment given here and elsewhere in the LOCF recommendations are indicative rather than exhaustive. So institutions are expected to frame assessment modes and criteria relevant to their situation and context, in keeping with the spirit of the LOCF. The basic idea of LOCF MASTER OF ARTS (M.A.M.C.) in mass communication—that learners at this level should understand their position(s) in the light of regional, national and global perspectives—must find a true and transparent reflection in the assessment.

1. INTRODUCTION

The Learning Outcomes-based Curriculum Framework (LOCF) for MASTER OF JOURNALISM & COMMUNICATION (M.J.C.) postgraduate degree programme intended to design a broad learning framework to provide the human capital needs of the ever changing Media and Entertainment Industry (M & E Industry). It also aims to inculcate and empower learners to innovation, incubation and acquire entrepreneurship abilities along with professional and employable skills. It is also designed to imbibe primary research culture among learners to encourage Research and Development (R & D) potentials. It has also been structured to prepare the undergraduates to achieve skills for digital and cyber world of the present and future era.

The programme incorporates current and futuristic trends in the Media and Entertainment Industry with Graduate Attributes (GAs) such as disciplinary knowledge and skills, influential and effective communication, self-directed learning, critical thinking, problem solving abilities, digital empowerment, ability to apply knowledge, lifelong learning, analytical reasoning, research-related skills, cooperation/team work, scientific reasoning, reflective thinking, multicultural competencies, leadership readiness/qualities, ethical reasoning, global vision, professional commitment and sensitizing with Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) of United Nations. It also aims to build future ready professionals and socially responsible global citizens working under multi-cultural environment contributing to the attainment of global peace.

2.1 NATURE AND EXTENT OF MASTER OF JOURNALISM & COMMUNICATION (M.J.C.)

The fundamental premise underlying the learning outcomes-based approach to curriculum planning and development is that higher education qualification such as MASTER OF JOURNALISM & COMMUNICATION (M.J.C) are awarded on the basis of demonstrated achievement of outcomes (in terms of knowledge, understanding skills, attitudes and values) and academic qualities expected from a postgraduate of professional programme such as Master of journalism & communication. The learning outcomes specify what exactly postgraduates after successfully completing Mass communication & Journalism degree programme of study are expected to know, understand and able to practice on the professional level.

The expected learning outcomes are very important in present day context, as it is generally observed that postgraduates of professional programmes such as Mass communication & Journalism are mostly not employable in view of M & E Industry. Therefore, higher education degrees must formulate Graduate Attributes (GAs), qualification descriptors, learning outcomes and course learning outcomes which will help in curriculum planning and development in the form of design and delivery. The overall formulation of the professional degree programme must equip learner to have competencies to provide deliverables to the human capital hungry industry.

2.2 Aims of Post Graduate Degree Programme in Mass communication & Journalism

7. Teaching Learning Process:

Learning is a challenge which has to be accepted. It is the most important activity one needs to accomplish throughout his life and career. One has to encourage the student to learn. A student needs to be engaged in a rigorous process of learning and self-discovery by adopting a highly focused and yet flexible approach to education as opposed to rote learning. Each day the student should be encouraged to focus on key areas of the course and learn its fundamentals and its application in life and society.

Teaching and learning pedagogy now envisages a shift from domain or conclusions-based approach to the experiential or process-based approach.

The present programme will promote learning on a proportionate scale of 40:20:40 principle, where lectures (listening/hearing) will constitute 40 percent of the delivery; visuals (seeing) 20 percent of the learning methods; and experience (doing/participating) 40 percent. This ratio is subject to change as per the needs of the programme from time to time. In order to achieve its objective of focused process based learning for the holistic development of students, the University uses a variety of knowledge delivery methods:

a. Lectures

Lectures should be designed to provide the learners with interesting and fresh perspectives on the subject matter. Lectures should be interactive in a way that students work with their teachers to get new insights in the subject area, on which they can build their own bridges to higher learning.

b. Discussions

Discussions are critical components of learning, and can be used as a platform for students to be creative and critical with old and new ideas. Besides developing critiquing skills, arriving at consensus on various real-life issues and discussion groups lead to innovative problem solving and, ultimately to success.

c. Simulations

Simulations provide students opportunities to understand real life situations and scenarios, and solve challenges in a controlled environment or make use of them in simulating cultural experiences by locating/transposing them in new (local, regional, national and international) situations.

d. Case Studies:

Real case studies, wherever possible, should be encouraged in order to challenge students to find creative solutions to complex problems of individual, community, society and various aspects of knowledge domain concerned.

e. Role Playing:

Assuming various roles, as in real life, is the key to understanding and learning. Students are challenged to make strategic decisions through role-plays, and to analyze the impact of these decisions. For this purpose, incidents from literary texts may also be used.

f. Team Work

Positive collaboration in the form of team work is critical in the classroom environment, for which it is necessary to transcend one's prejudices and predilections so as to achieve the desired outcomes. In the process of team work, learners will acquire the skills of managing knowledge acquisition and other collaborative learners, thereby understanding how to incorporate and balance personalities.

g. Study Tours/Field Visits:

Study Tours/ Field trips provide opportunities to the learners to test their in-class learning in real life situations as well as to understand the functional diversity in the learning spaces. These may include visits to sites of knowledge creation, preservation, dissemination and application. Institutions may devise their own methods to substitute/modify this aspect.

8. Assessment Methods:

a. Alignment of Programme Learning Outcomes and Course Learning Outcomes:

The assessment of learners' achievement in MASTER OF JOURNALISM & COMMUNICATION (M.J.C.) will be aligned with the following:

a. Programme learning outcomes (Postgraduate descriptors)

b. Course learning outcomes (qualification descriptors)

c. Academic and professional skills suggested in the postgraduate learning descriptors in the LOCF recommendations (indicated and illustrated in the Learning Outcomes in respect of select courses).

b. Assessment priorities: Institutions will be required to prioritize formative assessments (in-semester activities including tests done at the department or instructor level) rather than giving heavy and final weight age to summative assessments (end-semester and/or mid semester tests traditionally done centrally). Progress of learners towards achieving learning outcomes may be assessed making creative use of the following, either independently or in combination: time-constrained examinations (say 1-hour or 2-hour tests); closed-book and open-book tests (if applicable, rather than doing as a rule); problem based assignments; real life simulations; observation of practical skills (speaking, listening, problem solving within a peer group or a class); individual project reports (case-study or term papers within a given word limit); team project reports; oral presentations, including seminar presentation; viva-voce, interviews; computerized adaptive testing for MCQ; peer and self- assessment etc. and any other pedagogic approaches as may be relevant keeping in view the learners' level, credit load and class size.

c. Diversity in Assessment Methods: Allowing for the diversity in learning and pedagogical methods adopted by different universities and institutions, stakeholders (Academic Councils, Boards of Studies or statutory bodies) are expected to ensure that the objectives of the course(s) are clearly aligned to learning outcomes. It is expected that the curricula developed by institutions will maintain a transparent roadmap of (a) pedagogical methods and priorities and (b) learning outcomes that reflect the weightage points given to different aspects of skills and achievements identified in the recommendations.

d. Learning Outcomes Index: While devising assessment modes and criteria, institutions may look to gridlock course learning outcomes and programme learning outcomes as indicated in the LOCF mass communication & journalism, and work out ways to assign credit loads and distribute weightage points for each. The following table shows one possible way to develop a Learning Outcomes index for the Programme and the courses.

e. Innovation and Flexibility: Within each category, institutions are expected to encourage instructors to bring in innovative and flexible methods to guarantee the fullest realization of Learning Outcomes outlined in the document. All such instructional and assessment requirements must be clearly communicated to all stakeholders at the time of course registration. Any subsequent change or minor modification necessary for fuller realization of learning outcomes must be arranged with due notice and institutional arrangement at the relevant level.

f. Freedom and Accountability: Freedom and accountability of the stakeholder are key attributes that determine the success of the Learning Outcomes framework. For example, in research work, learners may be asked to pay attention to library work and survey of literature, originality of ideas, formulation of arguments, and creativity. Components may be assigned weightage points accordingly (say, x:y:z for different components out of 15 points). The excellence of institutions will be increasingly determined by Learning Outcomes rather than programme or course objectives. Hence it is necessary to innovate continually in learning and assessment in order to ensure meaningful and socially relevant learning (with transparent Learning Outcomes indices) rather than rote learning.

g. Clustering of Activities: Each cluster of activity may be assigned weightage points in accordance with the priorities of the institution without diluting the principles given in the LOCF. So an institution may choose to have any or all of the following in its in-semester activities with clear and transparent methods of communication to learners: open viva voce, group quiz or individual, classroom simulations and problem solving activities, library or field visits, term papers, individual and group reports, poster presentations. Credit hour and L-T-O distribution shall be crucial to any such clustering.

h. Review and Amendment: It is important for institutions to review, periodically and without fail, the efficacy of any method adopted to meet the learning outcomes proposed in the LOCF recommendations. Institutions are also required to make statutory provisions to adapt/modify/amend rules and clauses as may be necessary without violating the spirit of the larger programme outcomes outlined by the UGC in the CBCS guidelines.

i. Spirit Rather than Letter of the LOCF: The guidelines for assessment given here and elsewhere in the LOCF recommendations are indicative rather than exhaustive. So institutions are expected to frame assessment modes and criteria relevant to their situation and context, in keeping with the spirit of the LOCF. The basic idea of LOCF MASTER OF JOURNALISM AND COMMUNICATION—that learners at this level should understand their position(s) in the light of regional, national and global perspectives—must find a true and transparent reflection in the assessment.

1. INTRODUCTION

The Learning Outcomes-based Curriculum Framework (LOCF) for Bachelor of Journalism & Communication (B.J.C), this degree programme intended to design a broad learning framework to provide the human capital needs of the ever changing Media and Entertainment Industry (M & E Industry). It also aims to inculcate and empower learners to innovation, incubation and acquire entrepreneurship abilities along with professional and employable skills. It is also designed to imbibe primary research culture among learners to encourage Research and Development (R & D) potentials. It has also been structured to prepare the graduates to achieve skills for digital and cyber world of the present and future era.

The programme incorporates current and futuristic trends in the Media and Entertainment Industry with Graduate Attributes (GAs) such as disciplinary knowledge and skills, influential and effective communication, self-directed learning, critical thinking, problem solving abilities, digital empowerment, ability to apply knowledge, lifelong learning, analytical reasoning, research-related skills, cooperation/team work, scientific reasoning, reflective thinking, multicultural competencies, leadership readiness/qualities, ethical reasoning, global vision, professional commitment and sensitizing with Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) of United Nations. It also aims to build future ready professionals and socially responsible global citizens working under multi-cultural environment contributing to the attainment of global peace.

2.1 NATURE AND EXTENT OF BACHELOR OF JOURNALISM AND COMMUNICATION (B.J.C)

The fundamental premise underlying the learning outcomes-based approach to curriculum planning and development is that higher education qualification such as Bachelor of Journalism & Communication (B.J.C) are awarded on the basis of demonstrated achievement of outcomes (in terms of knowledge, understanding skills, attitudes and values) and academic qualities expected from a postgraduate of professional programme such as Bachelor of Journalism & Communication (B.J.C). The learning outcomes specify what exactly graduates after successfully completing Mass communication & Journalism degree programme of study are expected to know, understand and able to practice on the professional level.

The expected learning outcomes are very important in present day context, as it is generally observed that graduates of professional programmes such as Mass communication & Journalism are mostly not employable in view of M & E Industry.

Therefore, higher education degrees must formulate Graduate Attributes (GAs), qualification descriptors, learning outcomes and course learning outcomes which will help in curriculum planning and development in the form of design and delivery. The overall formulation of the professional degree programme must equip learner to have competencies to provide deliverables to the human capital hungry industry.

2.2 Aims of Post Graduate Degree Programme in Mass communication & Journalism

Programme Educational Objectives (PEOs):

The overall objectives of the Learning Outcomes-based Curriculum Framework (LOCF) for Mass communication & Journalism degree are:

5. To empower learners by communication, professional and life skills.
6. To impart the basic and advance knowledge of Mass communication & Journalism and related areas of studies.
7. To prepare socially responsible media academicians, researchers, professionals with global vision.
8. To develop the learner into competent and efficient Media & Entertainment Industry-ready professionals.

3. GRADUATE ATTRIBUTES (GAs)

The Graduate Attribute (GAs) reflect particular qualities and abilities of an individual learner including knowledge, application of knowledge, professional and life skills, attitudes and human values that are required to be acquired by Mass communication & Journalism graduates at the Higher Education Institutions (HEIs). The graduate attributes include capabilities to strengthen one's professional abilities for widening current knowledge and industry-ready skills, undertaking future studies for global and local application, performing creatively and professionally, in a chosen career and ultimately playing a constructive role as a socially responsible global citizen. The Graduate Attributes define the characteristics of learners and describe a set of competencies that are beyond study of a particular area and programme. Any graduate of Mass communication & Journalism should be media literate with the understanding of the core concepts of communication, the knowledge of new communication technologies and responsibility towards the society.

Graduate Attributes include:-

1. Disciplinary Knowledge: Knowledge of communication concept and theories. Acquiring knowledge of different dimensions of communication, historical perspectives and other related areas of studies.
2. Understanding the Role of Press: The press in democratic society, importance of freedom of press and impact of media in general.

3. Skilled and Industry-ready Professionals: Strengthening the abilities of a learner by skills, gaining knowledge of the present scenario of M & E industry including advertising, public relations, corporate communication, digital communication, media management.

4. Influential and effective communication: Influential and effective communication ability to share thoughts, ideas and applied skills of communication in its various perspectives like written communication, speech communication etc.

5. Research-related Skills: A sense of inquiry and investigation for raising relevant and contemporary questions, synthesizing and articulating.

6. Cooperation/ Team work: Building a team, motivating and inspiring the team members to work up with cooperation to their utmost efficiency.

4. QUALIFICATION DESCRIPTORS (QDS)

A qualification descriptor of Mass communication & Journalism postgraduate programme indicates the generic outcomes and graduate attributes expected for the award of the Bachelor of Journalism & Communication (B.J.C) IN Mass communication & Journalism degree programme. Qualification descriptors also describe the academic standard for a specific qualification in terms of the levels of knowledge and understanding, skills and competencies and attitudes and values that the holders of the qualification are expected to attain and demonstrate, in terms of actual outputs after acquiring B.J.C degree in Journalism & Mass Communication. These descriptors also indicate the common academic standards for the qualification and help the degree- awarding bodies in designing, approving, assessing and reviewing academic programmes. The learning experiences and assessment procedures are designed to provide every student with the opportunity to achieve the Intended Learning Outcomes (ILO). The qualification descriptors reflect both disciplinary knowledge, professional skills and understanding of Mass communication & Journalism discipline including generic skills and global competencies that all students in different academic fields of study should acquire/attain and demonstrate. The students who will complete the year of full-time study of this programme in Mass communication & Journalism will be awarded a graduation Degree. Some of the expected learning outcomes that a student should be able to demonstrate on completion of a degree level programme includes the following:

Qualification descriptors for a Degree in Mass communication &

Journalism include the following:

- Demonstrate (i) a systematic, extensive and coherent knowledge and understanding of an academic field of study as a whole and its applications, and links to related disciplinary areas/subjects of study; including a critical understanding of the established theories, principles and concepts, and of a number of advanced and emerging issues in the field of Journalism & Mass Communication; (ii) Procedural knowledge that creates different types of professionals related to the Media & Entertainment Industry, including research and development, teaching and government and public service; (iii) Professional and communication skills in the field of mass media, advertising, public relations, corporate communication, photography, animation, political communication, media management and new media and other such emerging areas of knowledge and Media Branches and current developments in the academic field of Media studies, including a critical understanding of the latest developments, and an ability to use established techniques of analysis and enquiry within the area of Journalism & Mass Communication.

7. Shall be equipped with ICTs competencies including digital literacy.
8. Shall become ethically committed media professionals and entrepreneurs adhering to the human values, the Indian culture and the Global culture.

9. Shall have an understanding of acquiring knowledge throughout life.

6. COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Course means the different papers a student undertakes in a programme of study. Course outcomes describe details of the student's abilities after completion of the course. Programme learning outcomes are attained through the learning of different Courses in a given programme or one can say that the achievement by student of course learning outcomes lead to his acquisition of programme learning outcomes. The course learning outcomes are linked to the different Graduate Attributes but not all course learning outcomes are linked to all Graduate Attributes as Graduate Attributes are developed through the entirety of the overall course learning outcomes after the completion of the programme of study. Given herewith are the tables indicating the connection between course learning outcomes and programme learning outcomes:

7. Teaching Learning Process:

Learning is a challenge which has to be accepted. It is the most important activity one needs to accomplish throughout his life and career. One has to encourage the student to learn. A student needs to be engaged in a rigorous process of learning and self-discovery by adopting a highly focused and yet flexible approach to education as opposed to rote learning. Each day the student should be encouraged to focus on key areas of the course and learn its fundamentals and its application in life and society. Teaching and learning pedagogy now envisages a shift from domain or conclusions-based approach to the experiential or process/based approach.

The present programme will promote learning on a proportionate scale of 40:20:40 principle, where lectures (listening/hearing) will constitute 40 percent of the delivery; visuals (seeing) 20 percent of the learning methods; and experience (doing/participating) 40 percent. This ratio is subject to change as per the needs of the programme from time to time. In order to achieve its objective of focused process based learning for the holistic development of students, the University uses a variety of knowledge delivery methods:

a. Lectures

Lectures should be designed to provide the learners with interesting and fresh perspectives on the subject matter. Lectures should be interactive in a way that students work with their teachers to get new insights in the subject area, on which they can build their own bridges to higher learning.

b. Discussions

Discussions are critical components of learning, and can be used as a platform for students to be creative and critical with old and new ideas. Besides developing critiquing skills, arriving at consensus on various real-life issues and discussion groups lead to innovative problem solving and, ultimately to success.

c. Simulations

Simulations provide students opportunities to understand real life situations and scenarios, and solve challenges in a controlled environment or make use of them in simulating cultural experiences by locating/transposing them in new (local, regional, national and international) situations.

d. Case Studies:

Real case studies, wherever possible, should be encouraged in order to challenge students to find creative solutions to complex problems of individual, community, society and various aspects of knowledge domain concerned.

e. Role Playing:

Assuming various roles, as in real life, is the key to understanding and learning. Students are challenged to make strategic decisions through role-plays, and to analyze the impact of these decisions. For this purpose, incidents from literary texts may also be used.

f. Team Work

Positive collaboration in the form of team work is critical in the classroom environment, for which it is necessary to transcend one's prejudices and predilections so as to achieve the desired outcomes. In the process of team work, learners will acquire the skills of managing knowledge acquisition and other collaborative learners, thereby understanding how to incorporate and balance personalities.

g. Study Tours/Field Visits:

Study Tours/ Field trips provide opportunities to the learners to test their in-class learning in real life situations as well as to understand the functional diversity in the learning spaces. These may include visits to sites of knowledge creation, preservation, dissemination and application. Institutions may devise their own methods to substitute/modify this aspect.

8. Assessment Methods:

a. Alignment of Programme Learning Outcomes and Course Learning Outcomes:

The assessment of learners' achievement in Bachelor of Journalism & Communication (B.J.C) will be aligned with the following:

- a. Programme learning outcomes (Postgraduate descriptors)
- b. Course learning outcomes (qualification descriptors)
- c. Academic and professional skills suggested in the postgraduate learning descriptors in the LOCF recommendations (indicated and illustrated in the Learning Outcomes in respect of select courses).

b. Assessment priorities: Institutions will be required to prioritize formative assessments (in-semester activities including tests done at the department or instructor level) rather than giving heavy and final weight age to summative assessments (end-semester and/or mid semester tests traditionally done centrally). Progress of learners towards achieving learning outcomes may be assessed making creative use of the following, either independently or in combination: time-constrained examinations (say 1-hour or 2-hour tests); closed-book and open-book tests (if applicable, rather than doing as a rule); problem based assignments; real life simulations; observation of practical skills (speaking, listening, problem solving within a peer group or a class); individual project reports (case-study or term papers within a given word limit); team project reports; oral presentations, including seminar presentation; viva-voce, interviews; computerized adaptive testing for MCQ; peer and self- assessment etc. and any other pedagogic approaches as may be relevant keeping in view the learners' level, credit load and class size.

c. Diversity in Assessment Methods: Allowing for the diversity in learning and pedagogical methods adopted by different universities and institutions, stakeholders (Academic Councils, Boards of Studies or statutory bodies) are expected to ensure that the objectives of the course(s) are clearly aligned to learning outcomes. It is expected that the curricula developed by institutions will maintain a transparent roadmap of (a) pedagogical methods and priorities and (b) learning outcomes that reflect the weightage points given to different aspects of skills and achievements identified in the recommendations.

d. Learning Outcomes Index: While devising assessment modes and criteria, institutions may look to gridlock course learning outcomes and programme learning outcomes as indicated in the LOCF mass communication & journalism, and work out ways to assign credit loads and distribute weightage points for each. The following table shows one possible way to develop a Learning Outcomes index for the Programme and the courses.

e. Innovation and Flexibility: Within each category, institutions are expected to encourage instructors to bring in innovative and flexible methods to guarantee the fullest realization of Learning Outcomes outlined in the document. All such instructional and assessment requirements must be clearly communicated to all stakeholders at the time of course registration. Any subsequent change or minor modification necessary for fuller realization of learning outcomes must be arranged with due notice and institutional arrangement at the relevant level.

f. Freedom and Accountability: Freedom and accountability of the stakeholder are key attributes that determine the success of the Learning Outcomes framework. For example, in research work, learners may be asked to pay attention to library work and survey of literature, originality of ideas, formulation of arguments, and creativity. Components may be assigned weightage points accordingly (say, x:y:z for different components out of 15 points). The excellence of institutions will be increasingly determined by Learning Outcomes rather than programme or course objectives. Hence it is necessary to innovate continually in learning and assessment in order to ensure meaningful and socially relevant learning (with transparent Learning Outcomes indices) rather than rote learning.

g. Clustering of Activities: Each cluster of activity may be assigned weightage points in accordance with the priorities of the institution without diluting the principles given in the LOCF. So an institution may choose to have any or all of the following in its in-semester activities with clear and transparent methods of communication to learners: open viva voce, group quiz or individual, classroom simulations and problem solving activities, library or field visits, term papers, individual and group reports, poster presentations. Credit hour and L-T-O distribution shall be crucial to any such clustering.

h. Review and Amendment: It is important for institutions to review, periodically and without fail, the efficacy of any method adopted to meet the learning outcomes proposed in the LOCF recommendations. Institutions are also required to make statutory provisions to adapt/modify/amend rules and clauses as may be necessary without violating the spirit of the larger programme outcomes outlined by the UGC in the CBCS guidelines.

i. Spirit Rather than Letter of the LOCF: The guidelines for assessment given here and elsewhere in the LOCF recommendations are indicative rather than exhaustive. So institutions are expected to frame assessment modes and criteria relevant to their situation and context, in keeping with the spirit of the LOCF. The basic idea of LOCF Bachelor of Journalism & Communication (B.J.C) in mass communication —that learners at this level should understand their position(s) in the light of regional, national and global perspectives—must find a true and transparent reflection in the assessment.
